How to use this directory

Start with a problem, not a tool. Choose one or two tools in the relevant category, test the free tier using a small sample task, verify privacy and commercial-use terms, and only then consider paying. Students should prioritize general assistants, coding tools, research tools, local/open-source models, presentation tools, and data-analysis tools.

Pricing notation

Free/Freemium: usable without payment, but some advanced features may require payment. Freemium: free allowance with limits on messages, credits, exports, resolution, storage, or models. Free trial: temporary access or sample credits. Paid: no permanent free plan commonly advertised. Open source: software can be self-hosted; compute, hosting, and third-party model APIs may still cost money.
